ARTISTS' CAMP SKIMS CREAM OF TEEN TALENT

Sensational tales to the contrary, genuinely creative members of the Now Generation are apt to opt for coping rather than copping out.

At least, that is the impression given by the 220 talented teen-agers whose display of serious purpose and solid achievement marked the Montana High School Fine Arts Camp, which closed a two-week stand at the University of Montana Friday (Aug. 4).

The camp, directed by George Lewis of the UM music faculty, drew registrants from seven states and Canada. A limited number of the campers have been awarded full-fee scholarships to remain an additional week on campus as charter members of the first Montana High School Artists' Camp.

The gifted students chosen for Artists' Camp will concentrate on music or visual art. Drama and ballet are not included in the Artists' Camp curriculum.

Selected by audition or art portfolio to participate in Artists' Camp, which runs through Friday (Aug. 11), are: Strings - Marian Egge, Cathy Jewison, Barbara Kirk, Marcia Ennis and Bob Story, all of Billings; Linda Lydiard and Lynda Huntsberger, both of Great Falls; Kim Merley, Helena; Ilona Peckham, Belt; Erika Syroid, Jeff Showell, Terry Johnson, Rick Stewart, Steve Gram and Bryan Colwell, all of Missoula.
